ANOTACE

A Picture Paints a Thousand Ideas

Today's learners live in a predominantly visual world, where through the media and technology they are constantly exposed to an flood of visual stimuli. In this session we will explore the importance of using imagery in the ELT classroom and try out a range of activities where visual aids such as pictures, photos, posters and video images help facilitate learning and provide powerful retention tools.

Making it Fun for Teenagers

This workshop aims to look at various aspects of teaching teenagers and assisting them in their learning process. We will first outline some of the challenges teenage learners face when learning a foreign language and what helps or hinders their learning. We will then try out a variety activities, with a view to raising the level of the learners' interest and motivation. The activities demonstrated in the workshop are versatile, and can be used in teaching both language and skills.
